

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention comprises a decorative lid strap for securing the cover of a casserole to the top of the casserole or container so that the casserole can be transported safely while food and etc.. is in the casserole. The lid strap has an elongated elastic strap with hooks mounted to the outer ends of the elastic strap so that the strap may be stretched over the top of the cover of the container and the hooks attached to the opposing handles of the container to secure the cover to the casserole or container. The strap hooks have projecting pins on the opposing lateral side edges thereof and a decorative sleeve is removably mounted over the strap with eyelets in the sleeve to receive the pins on the strap hooks to secure the sleeve to the strap while the strap is mounted over the cover of the casserole.